COMMISSION REPORT TO URGE DAM NO. THREE

Liquor Cargo Valued At Half Million Taken

FIFTY-SIX MEN ARE CAPTURED TODAY BY PARTY OF 5 RAIDERS

Barge, Six Trucks And 4 Automobiles Also Taken By Troopers

PRISONERS ARE PLACED IN JAIL

Attempt To Burn Boat Frustrated By Fire Company

(Associated Press)

BURLINGTON, N. J., Oct. 2.—Four state troopers one of them the holder of a distinguished service medal for bravery in the world war, and another, the winner of a recent $1,000 award for heroism, with a private detective, today captured 56 rum-runners and a half million cargo of imported liquors, six trucks, four automobiles and a barge.

The capture was made near Bridgeboro on Rancocas creek in the heart of the sand dredging industry, to which the boat had been towed up the Delaware river past Philadelphia. The prisoners were brought to Burlington jail, after their five captors had refused a $75,000 bribe and frustrated an attempt to burn the barge.

The barge contained 20,000 cases of foreign liquors, including champagne, benedictine, creme de mint, Scotch and English whiskey and French wine. The barge arrived yesterday morning and tied up at Adams wharf. The raiding party arrived as the first trucks were being loaded and made its way into the center of operations without being noticed. No lookouts had been posted.

All the rum runners were armed, but after a show of resistance, during which no shots were fired, they obeyed the command to get aboard the barge.

Nicholas, leader of the raiding party, marched 25 of them off the boat, one at a time, searching each one for weapons as he stepped ashore.

This contingent was sent to Burlington in one of the captured trucks, under guard. The remainder were herded into the cabin, while a member of the raiding party telephoned for assistance in taking them to jail. The 81 prisoners in the cabin set fire to the boat and three of them, breaking away, jumped overboard. A threat to shoot to kill from the troopers on guard, brought them back.

A fire company was summoned from Bridgeboro and the fire was extinguished. The cabin was destroyed but none of the cargo was damaged.

The men were brought to Burlington and all 56 given a hearing today.

CAPITAL BANKER AT LIBERTY ON PAROLE

Gaddis Released On Order Of Governor Sometime Ago

(Associated Press)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 2.—B. L. Gaddis, former president of the defunct Merchants bank of Montgomery has been granted a temporary parole by Governor W. W. Brandon, it was learned at the capitol here this morning. It could not be learned how long Gaddis is to remain at liberty.

It is reported that the parole was granted about two weeks ago, but it was not until this morning that anything definite could be learned.

Gaddis was convicted on December 20, 1922, of violating the state banking laws. He was sentenced to from four to six years in the penitentiary.

NEGRO SHOT AT WHEN HE FLEES

Buggy Yields Quantity Of Liquor And The Driver Is Fined

A negro giving the name of Wash Spraggins was fined $100 and given a street sentence in Albany police court this morning on a prohibition charge, following his arrest late yesterday by Officer M. J. Mitchell.

Mr. Mitchell, who has been off duty on sick leave, signaled his return to work yesterday by capturing the negro, who was said to have been riding in a buggy, which yielded more than a gallon of prohibited intoxicants.

Officer Mitchell stated that when he attempted to place the negro under arrest, the latter fled, and he fired several shots in an effort to halt the fleeing black, without success. Later he located him and placed him in custody, the trial in police court following this morning. The negro was said to have paid the fine.

New City Will Be Erected At Once

BESSEMER, Ala., Oct. 2.—The Tennessee Coal, Iron and Land company is preparing to build a town with upwards of 1,000 inhabitants already assured on the Alabama Great Southern, four miles south of this city. This became a certainty yesterday afternoon when the Land company signed a contract with the Alabama Water company for the laying of slightly more than two miles of mains to serve the new town from the company's mains in Jonesboro. The contract calls for service pipes to 244 new homes.

The new town will occupy what is known as the Mobile Junction farm, which is located between the A. G. S. railroad and the Eastern Valley wagon road. It will be composed largely of employees of the T. C. I. company, it is said. Arrangements for electric currents being carried to the development are said to be under way at present.

CITY OF DECATUR RETIRES $28,000 OF STREET BONDS

Assessments For Work Are Being Paid By Property Owners

INTEREST SAVED ON LARGE ISSUE

Finances Occupy Much Time At Meeting Of The Council

Mayor James A. Nelson this morning signed a check of the City of Decatur for $28,000, taking up that amount of the $300,000 bond issue, voted little more than a year ago for street paving.

Authority was given by the Decatur city council last night to retire up to $30,000 worth of the original issue, assessments already having been paid in by property owners on some of the property. The bonds were for a ten year period and bear six per cent interest. Inasmuch as only four per cent is received on city deposits, the council deemed it advisable to retire the bonds as rapidly as funds accumulate for that purpose, thereby saving two per cent interest for the period.

Finances occupied much of the attention of the council last night. It being the first meeting in October, reports were received from all departmental heads.

The council voted to send a check for $500 to the state highway department, under a plan which had been outlined for the municipalities of Albany and Decatur aiding the county of Morgan in providing the sum the county is to furnish in connection with the building of the bridge across the river at this point. It was explained the receipts of county taxes would not be coming in for some weeks yet, and it was suggested that the money the county is to pay be advanced to the state highway department at once, in order that all of the legal technicalities might be cleared away. The sum will be repaid by the county, it was said.

A delegation of negro citizens appeared before the council in connection with the proposed extension of the paving of Wilson avenue from Church street to Alabama street. Spokesmen for the delegation stated that residents of the thoroughfare were not opposed to the paving, but desired, if possible, to have a parkway in the middle of the avenue, to reduce the cost of the improvement.

Lay Leaders Are Called To Meet

Lay leaders of the Central Methodist church will gather at the Y. M. C. A. tonight at 7:30 o'clock at which time C. J. Randolph, chairman of lay activities will preside. Matters of importance are on schedule and Mr. Randolph urged that board make it a point to attend.

Mitchell's Case Set For Monday

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Colonel William Mitchell has been ordered by the war department to report on Monday to the inspector general of the army, in order that the investigation of his conduct, with a view to disciplinary proceedings may be resumed.

The order to Colonel Mitchell was given yesterday after the air board had notified the war department that it had concluded its examination of the former assistant chief of the army

Price Of Staple Hurt By Failure Of The Board, He Says

(Associated Press)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 2.—Senator J. Thomas Heflin today requested Secretary Jardine of the department of agriculture, to make public before October 5 the abandoned cotton acreage.

A telegram, sent to Mr. Jardine by Mr. Heflin, said:

"It is a matter of common knowledge throughout the cotton belt that the abandoned cotton acreage this year is the largest in the history of cotton production in the United States. It is generally estimated to be more than 5,000,000 acres. The failure of the crop estimating board at Washington, to give to the public, this important information, prior to September 1, has resulted in just and widespread criticism of the board's conduct and grave injustice and serious injury to the cotton producers of the United States.

"I most respectfully and earnestly urge upon you the importance of having this long delayed information published throughout the country by or before next Monday, October 5."

ELECTRIC LINES BEING EXTENDED

Additional Homes Will Be Served Southeast Of The City

Electric lines of the Alabama Power company are being extended in a southeasterly direction here, toward the Wilder place, and when the line is completed, many additional homes in the neighborhood southeast of the Benevolent hospital can be served with city current.

Poles already have been put in place and the stringing of the wires will be finished within a short time. Work of wiring several of the houses in the neighborhood also has been finished.

The Alabama Power company, in the past few months, has been making an effort to extend its services to as large an area as possible. Already the Valley Country club is equipped with city lighting facilities and within the next year it is likely that many other places, just outside the city limits, will be enabled to enjoy the comforts of electricity in the homes.

KIWANIANS WILL CARRY ON CHILDS' PROGRAM THIS YEAR

Two Plans Are Offered By Members For Fund Raising

MISS HAMILTON TALKS OF WORK

Demonstration Agent Assures Club Of County Success

What is declared to be one of the most productive meetings held in some months was that held Thursday evening by the Kiwanis club of the Albany-Decatur at the Y. M. C. A. The club is planning an effective means for carrying on the program for the underprivileged child campaign and to settle upon a financial campaign for the usual Christmas and winter charities. Miss Hallye Hamilton, Morgan County Home Demonstration agent, was a guest of the club and gave an interesting survey of her work thus far in this county.

The Kiwanis club will settle on one or two plans, possibly both, in connection with the Underprivileged child program and the preparations asked by the charities committee. Two plans have been discussed, one that the country store plan again be sponsored by the club and the other that the club again offer a local talent production in the raising of funds. It is believed that both plans will be accepted, the proceeds of one to go toward the maintenance of an underprivileged fund and the other to be set aside for the annual Christmas Kiwanis charity and other charities that are needed during the year. Further report on the two plans will be made at the coming meeting of the club.

Miss Hallye Hamilton, a guest of the club, talked briefly of the work in which she is engaged. Miss Hamilton has been in this county a little over two weeks and according to her report has found excellent conditions in connection with the success of her work. She thanked the Kiwanis for the world done toward obtaining a demonstration agent for this county and assured the membership that she would carry the work to a successful conclusion in this county.

The usual program of Kiwanis songs was rendered. Several short talks were made by members during the discussion of club problems and many members declared the meeting to have been one of the best held this year.

BUILDER OF "TAG" LINE DIES TODAY

C. E. James Passes Away Friday At His Chattanooga Home

(Associated Press)

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Oct. 2.—C. E. James, builder and business man of Chattanooga, died at 7:30 o'clock this morning after several weeks' illness. Mr. James was the originator of the Hale's Bar hydro-electric plant, founder of the Signal Mountain developments and president of the Tennessee, Alabama and Georgia railroad, once controlled and owned by Russell Sage.

Mr. James built this road originally and a few years ago repurchased and reorganized it and put it on a paying basis.

Mr. James was 74 years of age and had been sick with pneumonia, which developed into heart trouble, the immediate cause of his death. He is survived by his wife and one son.

PHYSICIANS NOW BUSY ON MEMORIAL

Committee Asks That Citizens Aid In Preliminaries

Going to work at once on the plan for the erection of a memorial to the five local physicians who lost their lives during the yellow fever scourge of 1888, committees asked today that the public enter into the preliminary work with the physicians in an effort to gain the memorial in an early drive.

The following statement was made public today by committee heads who are working earnestly to make the plan a reality:

The Northwestern district of the state medical association in session on the 25th of September, named the Morgan County Medical society as a committee to erect a memorial to the memory of the physicians who died of yellow fever in the epidemic of 1888.

Pursuant to this action, the Morgan County Medical society at its meeting on October 1st, named Dr. F. P. Petty, as general chairman of committees, and Dr. F. L. Chenault, as vice general chairman of committees. The Morgan County Medical Society will at once begin to perform this service.

The chairman wishes any citizen who has any information concerning the lives and works of those physicians to communicate with him, and also give him the name and address of any surviving members of their families.

It is the purpose of the committee to select a proper memorial and site for same, at some place in the city of Decatur, and to secure funds with which to erect this memorial. Prominent citizens will be interviewed as to a proper location for this memorial, and the committee will appreciate any service that any private citizen can render them in carrying out this work.

Dr. F. P. Petty, General Chairman of Committees.

Patterson Praised For His Part In Work of Commissioners

(Associated Press)

FLORENCE, Ala., Oct. 2.—Having completed the survey of the Muscle Shoals properties, members of the President's commission, are leaving for Washington, where the final report to President Coolidge on the disposition of Muscle Shoals will be drawn.

Three members of the commission, composed of five, have declared for the construction of dam number three and possibly the Riverton dam. The same three have favored the operation of the nitrate plant.

Statements made by members of the commission, while here, have created the impression that the recommendations for the disposition of Muscle Shoals will call for the operation of the nitrate plants and the construction of the dams and will be a unanimous report.

R. F. Bower, member of the commission and Chairman John C. McKenzie were the principal speakers at a banquet given here last night. Mr. Bower declared he felt congress would approve the report of the commission, which would provide for the operation of the nitrate plants, while Mr. McKenzie was not as optimistic as Mr. Bower.

A new development which is evidently an understudy by the commission was brought to light by the remarks of W. G. Waldo, technical expert of the commission. He called attention to the large supply of dolomite available in this district as well as the supply of bauxite, which is essential for the manufacture by an electric process of the extremely light metals needs in the construction of airplanes.

He declared that this district was the logical site for the development of an industry which will provide this metal for the construction of airplanes and dirigibles.

A. G. Patterson, chairman of the state public service commission, was one of the speakers at the banquet. In the course of his remarks, Chairman McKenzie spoke very highly of the efforts of Mr. Patterson to assist the commission in gathering information and in assisting it to carry out its program.

The Muscle Shoals commission will meet in Washington Monday to remain in continuous session until the recommendations are completed. The report is to be in the hands of President Coolidge on November 14.

All Over Alabama

Work on a new Consolidated school building at Albert City has been put underway and it is expected that the institution will be ready for occupancy in a short time. The building is to cost $7,000 and is being built by the board of education of Tuscaloosa county.

A five day merchants institute was held at Florence by dealers of that city and large numbers of employees and employers attended the sessions. Frank Stockdale, of Chicago, was in charge of the bi-daily lecture sessions.

A portrait of W. S. Keller, Alabama's first state highway engineer, who died recently, has been presented to the Alabama Highway commission by Mrs. Keller.

A drive to enroll 200 new members in the Junior Chamber of Commerce is under way at Montgomery. A survey of the entire business district is being made in a search for prospective members.

Tanner News

The fourth quarterly conference will convene October 10 and stewards of the various churches are very active in preparation for the meeting.

The rains of late have missed Tanner. From all reports farmers are two to one against rains for awhile, on account of the damage to cotton although water is as scarce as ever known.

The local gin still is running 24 hours per day and has ginned 1150 bales this season.

The farmers of this community are using every effort to get their cotton gathered. Several fields now are ready for the winter rains.

Mrs. Bessie Dowd, of Sheffield, is visiting friends here for a few days. Mrs. Dowd was a resident of Tanner for several years and has a host of friends here.

Mrs. Eubanks is very ill. She is the widow of the late Captain Eubanks.

Cause Of Women's Peculiar Suffering Is Now Explained

Quick Rise of St. Joseph's G. F. P. a Popularity Proves Claims Of Its Discoverers.

Very few women know what goes wrong with their system when they begin to suffer from headaches, nausea, cramping spells, pains in the back and sides and that awful dragged-down and tired-out feeling. They realize that something serious is the matter but they are unable to explain it.

As these unfortunate women keep more to their homes because of the self-consciousness of their condition, no longer taking any interest in the pleasures of life or the society of their friends, it is common for them to say they are suffering from "Female Trouble." But this is a term which does not explain the cause of their pain, nervousness, sallow, drawn faces, undernourished bodies and depression either to themselves or their friends.

The discoverers of G. F. P. found and proved beyond a doubt that Cause of the Generative Organs is the dreaded enemy which is causing women most of the cramping, nervousness, headaches, backaches, pain in the side and legs and that awful depressed and melancholy feeling which accompanies these distressing symptoms.

This important discovery puts an end forever to hit and miss methods of treating the ailments of women because it put at rest all doubt concerning the cause of their suffering.

12 Years Ago TODAYFrom The Daily of
October 2, 1913

A grand total of $180,000 was invested in building homes in New Decatur in the last twelve months.

Mrs. L. E. Harrison, Miss Blanche Brooks and Miss Helen Harrison have returned from Birmingham.

Miss Bess Bailey, president of the Saturday club will entertain the club and friends at three o'clock Saturday afternoon.

The Oriental Dancing Girls, one of the attractions with the Metropolitan Shows now showing at the Farmers and Merchants Fair, was closed this morning by the authorities.

Miss Hattie Alexander has returned from Pulaski, where she was the guest of Miss Mary Sumpter.

The question is where does all the money come from for automobiles?

The road between here and the Lawrence county line, toward Moulton, is bad and becoming worse. By the end of the winter, it will be almost impassable. The Daily realizes that some day the state highway department will pave the road, but isn't there something that could be done in the meantime, to make it easier for the people of Moulton and intermediate sections to get into Albany and Decatur? We have at least passable highways in every other direction from here now. Why not spend a little money in repairing the worst places on this highway?

BANKS AND NEWSPAPERS MUST JOIN IN FIGHT

Speculation in this country is becoming one of the greatest businesses, paying dividends, that has been built up. Speculation has been going on ever since there were men gathered themselves together to form villages and the practice is seemingly gaining headway.

Americans are generally prosperous and do not mind investing in any sort of scheme or proposition that is "absolutely gilt edge," it is a case of easy come and easy go with a great many folks who, when the situation is boiled down, cannot afford to pay the price of adventure, the thrill of get rich quick ideas that work, perhaps one in a thousand shots, even that ratio is entirely too progressive.

In the October business letter sent out to its friends and patrons, the Central National Bank, a local institution calls attention to this practice and gives a few facts when it studied will show the average American just what he is spending on uncertainties:

Fake Promotions Exceed Billion

"The selling of stocks which, if not absolutely worthless, are of a highly speculative nature, has become one of the biggest businesses in America. Investigators estimate that in an average year one billion dollars—nearly one-fourth of the money invested in new security issues—goes down the financial sewer.

"The proportional magnitude of this waste is indicated by the fact that the nation's annual investment in new building construction approximates only three billion dollars, and that the annual bill for automobiles is around two and a quarter billions.

"The money thus wasted in a single year would buy two million automobiles and would duplicate every public improvement in the shape of schools, hospitals, sewers, paving and water supply made within the same period by American cities of more than 30,000 inhabitants.

"And this waste is altogether inexcusable for there is not a man or woman in the land who is denied the opportunity to obtain, without expense or inconvenience, the authoritative information and sound counsel that make safe investment possible.

"It is now some years since the Better Business Commissions of the country adopted as their slogan the phrase 'Before you Invest—Investigate.' But the public, it seems, has not yet learned the lesson."

"The waste does not fall alone upon the shoulders of the wasters, the tax payer must eventually come into a share of the burden. The tax payer has to put up the necessary funds for hundreds of folks who went in search of a rainbow in their younger days and in their declining years must depend upon the charities of the state, county or town.

Occasionally these promoters of speculative schemes fall into the toils of the law and again the tax payer comes in for his share of the burden, he has to pay for the upkeep even after the promoter is in the toils of the state.

Who is to fight this evil, who is to carry on an organized fight, a steady campaign against the veritable bonanzas that are presented in one way or another to the American people day after day? We know of no better combination than the newspapers and the banks of the nation. Newspapers have been fighting it for years, avoiding all possible chance for any such scheme being presented to the public through advertising columns. Laws of the state require that all stock selling promotions be submitted to the Public Service Commission before any stock can be placed before the public for buying. This is a good law, an excellent law, but it cannot reach all the people who are approached day after day with schemes.

Bankers are known and recognized as financial advisers, it is the banker's business to look into the future and find, if possible, the flaws in any proposition. In most cases bankers are safe, why then should not the public turn to the banking class for advice when these propositions come to life? This is one of the bankers greatest service to the whole people, they wish to aid any man no matter what his financial condition may be so long as his record is clear and he has met his honorable and just obligations that he may have made.

The bankers hold the pocketbook of the nation, the newspapers hold the minds of the nation—they can form a wonderful combination and possibly eliminate much of this regrettable waste that is mounting into the millions as the year passes.

Think before you plunge, you may not have to regret later on. Get under the cover of these schemes and save your own money and the money of every other soul in the nation.

POWERS THAT BE FAVOR THE BUILDING OF DAM NO. THREE

According to all indications the Muscle Shoals Commission, sent down to the southland to determine the real and potential worth of the Muscle Shoals project, is going to recommend the building of Dam No. Three, near Wheeler Station, Alabama.

In reality the position of the Commission is not news to the people of the Tennessee Valley. The people of this section feel that no far-seeing diplomat or government employee had to be called upon to test the tremendous value of the site. These folks have known right along that the government could make only one step towards Muscle Shoals developments and that in the light of constructiveness.

Alabamians and people in general over the southland believe that the support that Mr. McKenzie has thrown toward the completion of the wonderful project is entirely worth while, in view of the vast sums of money the government has expended in the past in the development of a part of these lands along the river.

Dam No. Three, under construction, means a great deal more to the Morgan county section than the building of the other dams near the Tri-Cities. We are not at all sorry that the government has gone right ahead with the program of building at the Shoals cities, but we are doubly happy that the government is now moving toward the east lines of the river, nearer to the location of Albany-Decatur.

This development cannot fail—every move of the past few months has indicated that the powers that be are already settled upon the disposition of the properties so far as development is concerned. The Alabama state highway commission determined last spring that the next road project on the program for completion in North Alabama should be the Decatur-Muscle Shoals road. Would that not lead the public to believe that the entire state of Alabama has faith and belief in the constructiveness of our great government?

The building of the bridge at Albany-Decatur is another indication of the next move by the government. The location of the bascule span on this side of the river has led thinking citizens of these cities to look a little into the future and believe that the government means to complete the dam, thereby raising the water at this point so as to allow river boats to travel the stream on this side without the necessity of dredging. Dredging will cost many thousands of dollars, the construction of the dam is also estimated in great money figures, why then should the government decide to do both, what is the necessity of two expenditures when either will serve the purpose of navigation? The building of the dam, however, will mean an increase in power supply as well as making the river navigable, why not then add the additional money needed for the construction of the dam and go ahead with the work? Completion of the great project will remove the cause of a great deal of criticism directed against the government, it having been alleged in the past that the legislative bodies housed in Washington were but playing with the gigantic Shoals development and that as soon as the administration changed hands that all work would come to a close.

The Tennessee River demands the attention of Congress, it demands the attention of the President, regardless of what his program for certain economies may be, had this project not have been one of the most vital in the entire nation there would not have been the need for the fight that has been carried on for so many years between trusts, syndicates, monopolies and individuals. The United States government should not be the last to see the value of developing. Those men are placed in Washington to see at once, to see first the needs of the country and not to wait for recommendations from the outside as to what moves are necessary.

We believe that the government will complete the program outlined from the start for Muscle Shoals development. We do not think that the government would have made the expenditures that have been made unless the national heads meant to carry the project to completion and gain the benefits to be derived through such immense expenditures.

Senator Dial takes a sensible viewpoint of the situation—his view should be in accord with the wishes of the Coolidge administration. He suggests that the government use the machinery now on the ground, moving it a few miles up the river. He thinks that men now on the job as sufficient for the new project and that surely they have the experience needed. Following this suggestion will remove another criticism directed against the government, too much red tape. There would certainly be little use in changing forces when all that is necessary is the removal over a distance of twenty miles. The wheels of government, however, move slowly and sometimes strangely. We cannot tell until the die is cast what the government plans to do. All we can do is sit tight in the boat, instruct our constituents to keep fighting for the realization of a great ideal and utility, leave criticism to others until the negotiations are brought to a close.

Building Dam Three is one of the greatest benefits that can possibly be offered to North Alabama, assuring as it does the completion of the program at the Shoals, the building of an arterial highway which the state wishes to be built, the opening up of a territory heretofore more or less isolated, bringing the people in that section thoroughly in touch with the outside world, thrusting great opportunities into their very doors. We look forward to the completion with as much enthusiasm as the people of the Tri-Cities, though we haven't done near so much in keeping the minds of the nation directed towards the Shoals properties. The people of the Tri-Cities district are to be thanked for what has been done and in case the government goes ahead with the needed construction, the people of the Tri-Cities are again to be thanked for their worthy fight for a great cause.

THOUGHTS OF THE WEEK

By J. A. West

CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING IS THE ANSWER

So long as the cotton farmers of the south fail to take advantage of the means offered by the co-operative effort of those who have planned and put into operation means to enable the cotton farmer to get a fair return for his labor, just so long will he be without this helpful influence, and will continue to be the means of enriching others who take advantage of circumstances to make themselves rich at his expense.

Co-operative marketing has made the grape growers of California rich and independent. Cooperative marketing has solved the problem of the orange and other citrus fruit growers of the south. Cooperative marketing has made it possible for berry growers of Alabama and other states to get the top price always for their product. Why indeed should not cooperative marketing of cotton produce the same helpful results for the cotton farmers?

The experience of those who have taken advantage of the plan and become members of the association, is that they have received an average price for the cotton thus stored above the market price of the staple when sold in the open market.

It isn't right for the cotton farmer to expend his time and laborious labor in making a product which the world must have and which is enriching others, and he fail in many instances to get a price which gives him any margin of profit. The one answer is unite with those who have established the cooperative marketing association, and begin to get some of the results they have shown since the organization began functioning.

IN OUR HURRY

As we hurry along down life's busy street, how often is it the case we pass by unnoticed many of the unfortunates whom we chance to meet in this lane of life, and never see the inquisitive look for some little help from these who are down and out. Many of such are asking alms, for they have seen better days and pride alone forbids. Many of these no doubt are yearning for just a "good morning" or a clasp of the hand which would send a thrill through their being and lighten the load of life. As we hurry along with some problem of our own on our mind, we are perfectly oblivious of the crowd, and no doubt lose many opportunities to give some a lift; just a glance, just a word of encouragement, just a handshake, just a well wish, and the unfortunate goes plodding along, thinking over and over in their minds what a cold and heartless world.

The very old are too often the objects of our forgetfulness. They grew up at a time when people had time to exchange the courtesies of the day, (and it was a helpful custom) this custom being among the forgotten courtesies in a large measure in the rush of this modern, strenuous world of today.

Old people are very appreciative of these little courtesies, and if the opportunity was made use of when it presented, there would be lots of little sunshiny places made in their lives, that would furnish them food for thought, and make them know that they were not forgotten. In summing

AUTO WRECKS DUE TO COLOR BLINDNESS

Four Per Cent of Highway Accidents, or 30,000 in One Year, Traced to Inability of Drivers to Distinguish Between Red and Green.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

RECENTLY there was held a convention in Atlantic City where better traffic laws were considered. One of the speakers said that three quarters of a million automobile accidents were caused last year through three causes. These are misleading highway signs, disrespect for the law and color blindness.

It was declared that four per cent of all automobile drivers are color blind. They cannot distinguish between red and green. Color blindness is a strange defect. It is something which cannot be prevented and cannot be cured. It just is. Either you are not color blind, or you are.

If you are color blind you cannot be a safe automobile driver. You are sure to have trouble, sooner or later.

When I was a boy I had a playmate of the same age. Having read about signaling at sea by the use of colored squares of cloth, we decided to try it out on land. Raising the ragbag we found red, green, yellow and other colored textiles. It was not long before we had prepared a code. From above down, red, green, blue meant, "Come over to my house." Another combination meant "good bye."

My friend's window was visible from mine and we set out to signal each other. I was puzzled to find that his signals meant nothing to me and mine were unrecognized by him. What did it all mean? My friend was color blind. One color meant little more to him than another.

You will see a person now and then, wearing the most outrageous combinations of high colors. I have no doubt many such people are color blind, or have very weakly developed color sense.

Failure to match colors is one of the earliest signs. Sent to the store to get a spool of thread to match a green ribbon, left to yourself you may bring back a spool of red thread. The pathetic thing about it is that the possessor of color blindness may be utterly unconscious of the defect. No examination for safe driving is complete if it does not include a test of the color sense.

It is shocking to learn that so large a percentage as 4 per cent of the activities of a day, if courtesies on every occasion presented was taken advantage of, it would furnish many little pleasant memories which would gird the life for sterner duties on the morrow.

Answers to Health Queries

R. C. M. Q.—What can be done for eczema?

2.—What causes it?

A.—Simple diet, regular elimination will relieve the condition to a great extent. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question. 2.—It is caused by an infection in the blood.

B. M. Q.—What will make a person grow?

2.—What should a girl of 4, 4 feet 11 inches tall, weigh?

3.—What will develop the arms? Would massaging with cocoa butter be effective?

A.—It is difficult to increase the height after one has reached 21. Until that time a normal healthy person develops in every way. 2.—She should weigh about 100 pounds.

3.—Exercise which involves the muscles should benefit you. Massaging should also be helpful. Copyright, 1925, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my teens and have been going with a young man three years older than I. He acted as if he loved me and I loved him dearly. He started going about with a girl he knew I did not like. He soon got tired of her and now he wants to go out with me again. Please advise me. K. M. E.

K. M. E.: Since this young man is not engaged to you, it is his privilege to meet as many other girls as he chooses, my dear. And it certainly is not wise for you to tell this young man of your jealousy. Continue your friendship with him, but do not give up your other acquaintances. In time any little difficulty you may have now in this connection will be smoothed out. At any rate, don't brood over it!

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

About three months ago I met a young man whom I like very much. We went out together for some time, and all of a sudden he stopped taking me out. All my friends are asking me what happened, but as to that I do not know. I am nearly heart-broken and would like to hear from him. Please advise. RITTA.

RITTA: Since you were so friendly with this young man, why do you hesitate to ask him to call, Rita? You know, this is your privilege and you really ought to take advantage of it. I suggest that you write him a brief note inviting him. If he is at all interested in you he will be happy to accept your invitation and use it as a means to resume your friendship.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of this office.

Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Pickens were the overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Penney, on route to Florida where they will make their home.

J. L. Echols is in Florida on a business trip.

Thomas Wells remains confined to his bed with a broken limb sustained several weeks ago.

Friends of Fred Eaves will be glad to know he is recovering rapidly from an operation for removal of his appendix at the Benevolent hospital.

Historic Bell Been Given To College

Athens College for Women, Athens, Alabama, has been made the recipient of a beautiful bell for use in college exercises. The bell formerly hung in the belfry of the old Methodist church in Athens. On the erection of the new church the bell was removed, but the architecture of the new structure forbids its use there. The bell is of an exquisite tone, is handsomely chased, and bears the name of the caster, "A Fulton, Pittsburgh." It was cast more than one hundred years ago. This famous old bell which has been ringing for the church services and weddings of the people of Athens for more than a century will now call Athens College students to Chapel and Vesper services. The establishment of the bell in this historic institution is very gratifying to Athenians.

Birmingham Will Get Movie Palace

(Associated Press)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 1.—This city will have its first motion picture palace sometime next spring when a new theater will be completed on North Second avenue by the Mudd and Colley Amusement company. This announcement has just been made public by representatives of the company following successful negotiations for a site for the theater in the business district.

The new picture house will cost in the neighborhood of a million dollars, it is understood, and will embrace all of the modern features that are now a part of the equipment of such houses in the larger cities of the north.

Work on the new theater was to start sometime this week, with the provision that construction will be completed within the next eight or ten months.

The new building is to be of the Spanish type of architecture along the more substantial lines of the modern office building of steel and concrete.

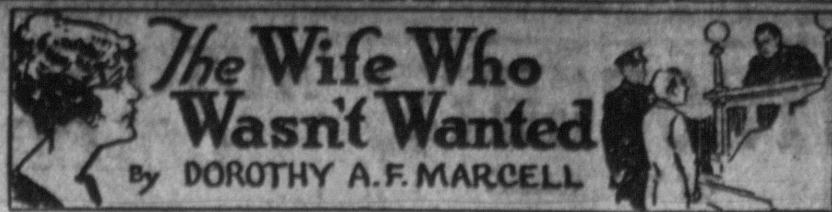

A name for the new theater has not yet been selected.

New Stomach Treatment Brings Quick Relief

Manufacturers Unable To Meet the Demand

In every city where it has been introduced thousands are now rejoicing over the remarkable results. Former sufferers of stomach misery, gas on stomach, belching, indigestion, dyspepsia, and constipation have been relieved and restored to health and are proclaiming the treatment to be the most effective remedy on the market. This preparation which is accomplishing marvelous results and had an unprecedented rise to popular approval, was formulated by new process of distillation of rare herbs into liquid form and now being offered to the people under the name "Herb Juice," which is in great demand and outselling any other medicine where it is known. If you wake up in the night with indigestion, gas on stomach, take a teaspoonful of HERB JUICE and you will get relief in a few minutes. If you are troubled with constipation, headaches, bilious coated tongue, bad breath, kidney, bladder or blood trouble, take it on going to bed and we guarantee results. It is little wonder the manufacturers are working day and night trying to meet the demand for Herb Juice since its remarkable quick relieving powers are becoming known. Ask anyone who has tried Herb Juice and they will tell you it is the most pleasant tonic laxative they ever found, and three doses will relieve constipation and stomach trouble almost instantly.

Herb Juice, the great medicine, that is accomplishing such great result in the way of relieving sufferers is now being introduced in Albany by Caddell Drug Co.—Adv.

"THE WIFE WHO WASN'T WANTED" with Irene Rich is a picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Young Bob Mannering has been arrested for driving a car which crashed into another and killed a woman. Bob's mother, Eileen, pleads with her husband, John Mannering, who is District Attorney, to release the boy, but he insists Bob must stay in jail. His own duty, John declares, is to the public. "Then," shouts Eileen, "you are not my husband! But I can and will fight, even if you do turn your back on our boy—for I am his mother!"

CHAPTER VII

Regardless of certain journalistic assertions to the contrary, there was at least some interest displayed in the campaign Jerome Wallace waged for the office of District Attorney.

Naturally Wallace was interested himself, so interested, indeed, that this morning he had even forsaken his bed and the comforts of his luxuriously appointed apartment up town at an unusually early hour to come down and visit his campaign headquarters.

Slick Jennings, too, had likewise displayed sufficient interest to bestir himself betimes and be on hand to welcome cordially him whose political destinies he was supposed to forward with deft touch and masterful skill. This self same ability to make a masterful touch deftly was doubtless responsible for the vigor with which Slick chewed away at his after breakfast cigar and regarded with satisfied complacency the presence of the opulent Mr. E. I. Bledsoe—apparently another interested party—at the very moment his principal discovered tidings which seemingly caused him pain. "Look here—can you beat it?" grumbled Wallace, holding a newspaper aloft that his followers might read its staring headlines, "District Attorney Mannering stands firm in decision to prosecute his own son."

"It takes gas—a lot-a gas—to make the ole sinner climb a hill."

"It's somethin' fierce—somethin' fierce," affirmed Mr. Jennings with heat, and then, as Wallace had coolly pre-empted his desk and chair, Slick strode about, a wanderer in his own office, to finally halt at Wallace's elbow and stare over his shoulder as he read aloud.

"With the election only three days away it is almost certain that Mannering will be re-elected. Here is the type of public servant the people want, a man who has the courage and fearlessness to see that the law is enforced regardless of whom may be the victim."

"It's somethin' fierce," repeated Slick with feeling. "Some people get all the breaks." Then he stared over at Bledsoe, who, with his hands in his pockets, was gazing out of the window with a frown upon his face. Slick's look was not without satisfaction, as if at least one "break" had not escaped him. Furthermore, it was calculating, seemingly estimating what this particular "break" would stand. Yet his tones lost nothing of their lugubriousness as he went on. "Instead of hurting this guy, Mannering, all this stuff about him and his kid is helping him—making a little tin god of him. H—l, if I had an ole man an' he threw me down like that I'd ally him a slow pill—that is, if this isn't just bla-bla. If Mannering is on the level—"

"He is on the level all right. Don't make any mistake about that. He's just a—mned fool enough to carry it through," Bledsoe broke in. Turning impatiently from the window, he moved over to the desk and picked up the paper only to toss it aside in disgust. "He's got his re-election all sewed up, I tell you. Nothing but a miracle will stop him." With which political forecast Bledsoe turned as if to depart.

But Slick was before him. Confidence and assurance lighted his eye as he intercepted the millionaire. In the very face of the other's gloomy prediction he was cheerful.

"Nobody never won no election till the vote was counted," he declared firmly. There was a superabundance of negatives in the assertion, but it was meaty—very meaty. It conveyed meaning, and great minds are prone to neglect nonessentials.

"Things can happen—d—mn funny things can happen sometimes," continued Slick with feeling. Evidently this man was a student of life, for here was sound philosophy if somewhat crudely expressed. A modernist was Slick, yet one who conceded that miracles were possible. Yes, in his manner there was a vague something which seemed to express a willingness to see that miracles took place—more, even to the extent of performing them himself. And his confident smile, the cocky angle of his hat and the jaunty tilt of his cigar seemed to breathe marked capabilities in that line did he but set his mind to it.

But suddenly the hope and promise in Slick's mein seemed to fade. It was as if the brightness of a cheery day were veiled by mist, and all powerful as he was Mr. Jennings could not escape an immutable law. He hooked a finger into the rotund waistcoat of E. I. Bledsoe and regarded it as though he contemplated further explorations.

"It takes gas—a lot-a gas—to make the ole sinner climb a hill," he exclaimed cryptically, "and the tank is low—runnin' blame low."

Mystic words these to the uninitiated, but apparently not to Mr. Bledsoe. He hesitated, looked very glum and then with a sigh produced a check book from his pocket.

The effect of this action upon Slick was electrical. In an instant he was his cheerful self again—indeed, more so, for now joviality and cordiality appeared to exude from every pore of his plump body. As one who has completed a difficult task, he mopped the perspiration from his brow and waxed very busy. In his haste to see that Mr. Bledsoe was given every convenience and comfort in the preparation of his check Slick was rather unceremonious in the manner in which he ousted Wallace from the desk and chair.

But Wallace did not appear to mind. Such was his confidence in Slick's abilities, seemingly, that the mere sight of Bledsoe's check seemed to erase the memory of the morning's bad news. Flicking a speck of cigarette ashes from his carefully pressed trousers, he adjusted his tie and departed with that inscrutable smile of his upon his face. He went forth a well dressed man of leisure, apparently in the best of spirits to take a drive, a long drive, which led in the direction of the jail, a place where at that very moment in the visitors' room Eileen and two lawyers were in conference with Bob.

Yet it was a curious conference, a rather one sided one, for Bob sat apart and gave little heed to what was taking place.

"As to the postponement," one of the lawyers was explaining to Eileen, "we have procured a continuance of thirty days, which in the congested state of the calendar means that the case will not come to trial for at least six weeks."

Eileen bowed and turned to give Bob a smile of encouragement, which faded as another thought claimed her.

"Did my—the District Attorney object?"

"Oh, no," said the lawyer quickly. "There could hardly be objection to that. We have been retained so recently in the case that as a matter of course we are entitled to ample time to prepare an appropriate defense for our client."

"But did the District Attorney say anything? I should have thought he would have said something," persisted Eileen, and there was a wistful look in her eyes.

Too Much of a Good Thing

"It is six years since I had my first stomach trouble. It rapidly grew worse. My food would not digest and I was reduced to skin and bone. My doctor put me on a starvation diet, and when my pains grew worse I concluded it was too much of a good thing. On the advice of my druggist I tried May's Wonderful Remedy, and am now entirely well." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists.—Adv.

Overwrought Nerves

YOU never heard of a red-blooded person—man or woman—becoming a nervous wreck. And you never will. You never saw anybody with healthy, rich, red blood get wearied by the activities of daily life. Did you?
No! Its weak blood—lack of healthy, rich, red blood. That's the whole trouble with those whose nerves are overwrought. They lack the resisting powers—the stamina that healthy, red-blood-cells give that enable us to stand up under the strain of daily life.
S. S. S. is the salvation of these unhappy people. It is just the thing needed to strengthen the nerves, restore muscular power to the body, and increase the endurance of weak, failing, run-down women and men.
Don't keep on going down simply because your blood is starving for want of healthy, red-blood-cells. You can get back your nerve power with S. S. S. You can do it just as surely as thousands have done for the past century.
S. S. S. also clears the skin of pimples, boils, eczema—hollow cheeks fill out and firm flesh takes the place of flabby muscles. Why, you'll begin living all over again. Get S. S. S. today from any good druggist. And get the larger bottle. It's more economical.

AGRICULTURAL EFFICIENCY AND RURAL WELFARE IN THE SOUTH

BY CARL C. TAYLOR

Dean of the Graduate School of North Carolina State College, Raleigh, N. C.
The American Country Life Association meets this year in the South for the second time, at Richmond, Va., October 27 to the 31st, at the Jefferson Hotel. It is coming into this area for its annual national conference because it was invited and urged to come by a great number of people who are deeply and devoutly interested in Southern agriculture and rural life.

The topic of the conference is, "Needed Re-adjustments in Rural Life Today." Experts in every phase of agricultural efficiency and rural welfare are to appear on the program. In this broadening of the topic for consideration the association is departing from the rule of its previous annual program. At Baltimore in 1918 it discussed the general field in which such an organization should serve. The topic of the second conference at Chicago was "Rural Health," the third at Springfield, Massachusetts, was "Rural Organization," the fourth at New Orleans was "Town and County Relations," the fifth at New York was "County Community Education," the sixth at St. Louis was "The Rural Home," and the seventh at Columbus, Ohio, was "Religion in rural life." In each of these conferences, specialized groups have made specific and valuable contributions to all other specialized groups present. This year it is hoped to plumb the depths of the total agricultural situation with all groups participating. No specialized group is to dominate the program. Rather, the purpose is to get together all who work in the field of agriculture and rural life and discuss the problems that are common to them all. The conference will not be the success it ought to be if all who are interested in agricultural welfare do not come and participate. Worse yet, any group that is not present, whether it be agricultural extension forces, health, welfare or education leaders, rural ministers or any one else who is attempting to serve rural needs, will be the chief loser.

No specialized group of rural workers has a monopoly on the various rural problems or their solutions. The American Country Life Association doesn't try to tell any group of specialists what its job is or what it ought to do. It only furnishes a conference in which that type of problem which is a part of every specialist's job is thoroughly discussed and considered from every angle. Each specialized group working in the field of agriculture and rural life has its own local, state and national conferences, in which it discusses the technical programs and details of its special work. At no other meeting in the United States is it offered the opportunity to meet with all other specialized groups from every state in the United States.

Agricultural efficiency and rural welfare are moving along at rapid strides. Services and special groups have risen to meet the needs as they have arisen. In every state the local community of the nation several rural agencies and groups have developed which are rendering service to the farmer, his family and community. Sometimes friction and maladjustments arise just because so many of us are honestly and ardently trying to render service. Nothing could be more worthwhile than for us to get together, take stock of the total situation and learn what each other is trying to do.

Every specialized group of workers and every specialized interest in rural life needs the contribution which will be made in the conference at Richmond. Certainly the conference needs every one of these groups present. It has nothing to jam down any one's throat. Its very genius is in getting everyone together with others who have a contribution to make to the larger needs and problems of agriculture. Being a national organization it holds its annual meeting at various places in the United States. This year we people in the South are fortunate in having it where we can all attend. This is our special year of advantage. Furthermore the conference is counting on us. Each annual conference depends at least for fifty per cent of its success upon the geographic locality in which it meets. It's up to the South this year. We will not fail if those who are in positions of dominant leadership will urge those with whom they have the greatest influence to be there. This ought to mean agricultural extension people, rural health people, public welfare people, rural education people, rural ministers, and the farm men and women who are themselves leaders in their communities and states. The place is Richmond and the dates are October 27 to 31.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 per cent air and 6 per cent common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, T. G. Johnson, 609 W. Lake St., Chicago, Ill., is offering to send a lamp on 10 days FREE trial or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month. —Adv.

McGraw Holds Tongue In Picking Winners World Series; Babe Ruth Takes Senators

John McGraw, master mind of baseball, has been asked numbers of times his choice for winning the world series and his answer on each occasion has been, "I do not know." Possibly he wants to keep the reputation for having the master mind of baseball and does not wish to divulge the secret of his success as the most consistent winner of pennants in organized baseball.

Babe Ruth, one time famed Yankee slugger, police court favorite and the center of baseball's crowning scandal, still thirsts for space on the sport pages of the nation. He openly declares that the Senators will win the championship, having an advantage in hurlers with Coveleskie, Johnson and Reuther to pick from. He throws in Reuther and Zachary as only probable winners, believing that the Pirates will find great joy in falling on the offerings of the left-handers. He pins his decision upon the twirling fingers of Johnson and Coveleskie and the ability of the Senatorial team to hit in the pinch.

Who will win the series is a question that is on the lips of every baseball fan in the nation at this time. The series opens in five days at Forbes field Pittsburgh. Idealists hope that Walter Johnson and Babe Adams may be pitted in the initial conflict, to give the series the right flavor. Veteran against veteran with all the tricks of baseball at the command of both hurlers, Barney Dreyfuss, Pittsburgh owner will probably draw upon Yde (pronounced Yeddie) and it is not to be overlooked that Dreyfuss has Aldridge, Morrison, and Specs Meadows to call upon as pitching choice. A team with a corps of hurlers like that cannot be criticized as having a weak pitching staff. It is not to be overlooked that this pitching staff sent the best the National league had to the showers, including the Giants. Washington is not noted for having a team of clouters while Pittsburgh leads the league in team hitting. Every Pirate playing regularly is hitting above the .300 mark. It is easy to predict that Johnson and Coveleskie will have their hands full in stopping the Pirate jubilee.

This writer picks Pittsburgh to gallop away with the world series though the selfsame writer wishes for Washington to grab the bunting. Both clubs are at top form else they would not be playing the world series.
